

SEVENTY-FIVE MEN OF NEARLY DOZEN RACES AT FIRST LUNCHEON

Pan-Pacific Weekly Mid-Day Feature Starts Out With Backing of Boosters

Seventy-five men of nearly a dozen races gathered today in Cooke hall, Y. M. C. A., for the initial mid-day luncheon of the Pan-Pacific club. The keynote of the affair was to set an example by showing that in Hawaii men of every race can live in peace, working for the benefit of all, and showing the rest of the world that race prejudice can be made a thing of the past.

Alexander Hume Ford presided, and in his usual happy way introduced everyone. Three minute talks from representatives of each of the peoples present were features of the luncheon and showed the spirit of inter-Pacific patriotism.

C. K. Ai spoke for the Chinese, calling attention to the fact that his race was the pioneer one to settle here. He said Chinese born under the American flag become true American citizens. Editor S. Sheba of the Hawaii Shingo, speaking for the Japanese, declared the example of Hawaii's Japanese in settling troublesome questions arising would, if followed in California, have completely eliminated the anti-Japanese trouble there a few years ago.

In a brilliant speech, C. G. Ramirez, speaking in behalf of the Filipinos, asserted the Pan-Pacific Club and the Hands-Around-the-Pacific movement will be the means of leading the Filipinos into their rightful standing as a people.

Representing the Koreans, Dr. Syngman Rhee said there are between 5000 and 6000 of them now in the Hawaiian Islands, ready and willing to do their part in the movement.

A burst of applause greeted Lorrin Andrews when he said that if the people of the Hawaiian Islands can give the world proof that race differences can be forgotten, and the races blended into "one tribe," as Jack London suggested, a bigger and finer thing will have been accomplished by the people of Hawaii than has been done in the history of man.

Alexander Hume Ford's remarks were as follows: "Today in most of the large cities about the Pacific there is a weekly luncheon organization affiliated with our Hands-Around-the-Pacific movement. In Honolulu the Pan-Pacific Club is the local expression of the Hands-Around-the-Pacific movement, which is the mother organization of which we are all children. The heads of the various Pacific governments are the leading spirits of the Hands-Around-the-Pacific movement, as the prominent men of every nationality in Hawaii are the leaders and workers in this Pan-Pacific Club, a club that might be said to have been born on the beach at Waikiki, with Jack London, the preacher of the 'Language of the Tribe,' as its godfather, and as its sponsors, men from each of our various nationalities, who met with Mr. London to learn the language of the Universal Tribe, which is expressed in kind deeds and noble acts—things that we all understand."

"We now meet at these weekly gatherings to get to know each other better, to seek to find the one way we may all travel toward the goal of good citizenship."

"On Kauai next month there will be held the fourth annual civic convention. It seems to me that this organization, above all others in Hawaii, should be represented there. There should be a brief five-minute address from the leader of each of our nationalities of the Pacific residing in Honolulu on the subject of civic righteousness. There the Chinese speaker might tell why Hawaii is a better place to live in because of the work of the Chinese who have come here. There the Japanese speaker might tell what the Japanese children intend to do to make the land of their adoption a better land to live in. The Filipino speaker might tell us what we can do to help to make them better citizens. The Korean speaker might voice the ambitions of his people who have found a paradise in Hawaii. There the Portuguese speaker might point with pride to the achievements of his people, and tell of their future intentions. There the speaker for the Hawaiians might in a few words tell us what the Hawaiians wish us to do for them and what they will do to bring about a righteous citizenship. This, it seems to me, should be the subject for our first discussion. United in a civic convention, we take a step forward toward creating a Pacific-wide patriotism."

"Perhaps at our next meeting we might discuss the next practical step, the establishment of a permanent industrial exhibit in Honolulu, where the handicrafts and arts of the children of every Pacific land resident in Hawaii may be shown side by side with every kind of home product that is produced, or may be produced through the efforts of our people of different Pacific nationalities resident in Hawaii."

"It is only by working together for each other and for ourselves that we will learn to respect each other and to learn, not the languages of each other's tribe, but the universal language of all of those people who work together for the good of humanity, to be of service to each other; for thus they become of greater service to themselves."

"We now meet together as an organization, and may no week ever pass that we do not discuss at the festive board plans for joint work for the community that will bring us closer and closer together, until we all speak the language of 'one tribe and work as one people.'"

Among those present were: Hon. Walter F. Frear, Alexander Hume Ford, Lorrin Andrews, Guy H. Tuttle, Richard H. Trent, Bertram von Damm, John Guild, Dr. J. J. Shephard, Dr. W. C. Hobdy, J. D. Canfield, H. S. Hayward, Rev. Henry Judd, J. F. Haley, A. E. Blaby, A. E. Larimer, Dr. J. W. Wadman, A. F. Taylor, R. J. Lowrey, Joseph B. Stickney, R. A. Jordan, A. Frank Cooke, George Castle, W. A. H. Laurie, John Paul, Dominus Scudder, W. H. Campbell, C. F. Maxwell, Charles F. Chillingworth and Thomas F. Sedgwick.

Korean. Dr. Syngman Rhee, W. K. Ahn and C. H. Kim. Filipino. C. C. Ramirez, Leonardo M. de Jesus, F. Leopold Theodore, Braulio McKenney, Placido Alviar, Domingo Galang. Portuguese. J. M. Camara, Manuel C. Pacheco, J. Gomes. Hawaiian. George E. Smithies, B. N. Kahalepuna. Japanese. H. Arita, consul-general; K. Fujii, assistant consul-general; S. Aoki, manager Yokohama Specie bank; J. Suzuki, assistant secretary Japanese Y. M. C. A.; S. Sheba, editor Hawaii Shingo; T. Hattori, assistant editor Hawaii Shingo. Chinese. C. K. Ai, Luke Chan, M. S. Chung, H. Ching, Joseph Wong Leong.

Andrew McCabe, who went to Queen's Hospital on Saturday night as the result of an altercation with a man named Erbs, declared today that Erbs must apologize and make good the damage done to McCabe's head by an iron wrench or else face arrest and prosecution.

"Erbs struck me with a wrench, that's how I got hurt," said McCabe today. "But then I took the wrench away from him and he ran down to the police station. Afterward he went to Waikiki and told my nephew that he had beaten and cut me. The trouble started because he made remarks about my wife." McCabe says that Erbs is the husband of his adopted daughter.

EAST INDIANS URGED TO RISE UPON BRITISH

Copies of the San Francisco Gadhar, an East Indian newspaper with a general circulation throughout the United States, have been received in Honolulu in which the natives of India are urged to revolt against the English. In the English column of the newspaper a poem by Peter Golden urging the mutiny is published. It follows:

RISE, INDIANS RISE!
Rise, Indians rise, from motherland
Drive out the foul invader!
Strike to their death the dastard crew
Who've plundered and betrayed her.
Let not this great momentous hour
Go by without your giving
Unstinted all you have in life
To keep your India living.

Look to the Feringhis themselves,
Do the same as they did
When with your best and bravest blood
You beloved land they bathed.
Oh, strike with everything you can
To smite and slay the foe man.
And from this day bid India swear
She will bow her head to no man.

Oh, better far one glorious hour
In great and splendid daring,
Than many an empty year eked out
For no grand purpose caring.
Better the shout! the headlong charge
The sudden noble ending
Than see one's soul without a strife
Up to its God ascending.

Hark! from the plain of Hindustan
Your martyred dead are crying,
They call from every hill whereon
They left their bleached bones lying.
"For motherland give all,
Dar every deathlike danger
And fall hot avenger now—
Drive out, drive out the stranger!"

Rise, Indian rise, from motherland
Drive out the foul invader!
Strike to their death the dastard crew
Who've plundered and betrayed her.
Let not this great momentous hour
Go by without your giving
Unstinted all you have in life
To keep your India living.

LETTERS

Honolulu, Aug. 3, 1915.
Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: I desire to voice a complaint—one that has become more and more common on the streets of late—with reference to the inadequacy of the Honolulu street-car service.

When this system was inaugurated in 1901, the ten minute schedule maintained was adequate to the community needs, but today it is wholly different. Then we had a population of but 40,000 while today we have about 65,000, and yet, despite this increase of over 60 per cent in the population there has been no change whatever in the street-car service—no effort whatever made to keep pace with the demands and requirements of the community.

Today, as then, a person who has just missed a car must wait ten precious minutes on the street corner for the next car. And incidentally, no effort is made to have cars connect at junction points, but on the contrary, it seems to be the studied practice to have cars leave these points just as the connecting car approaches within a few yards.

At night the last through car, as of yore, still leaves the corner of Fort and King streets at 11:35, so that a person living at any extremity of town and coming from some point in the opposition direction must so time his departure as to reach Fort and King streets at this precise time (and frequently cars that are scheduled to connect do not do so), or have the pleasure of hiring an automobile, with the transfer still in his possession as a memento of the occasion and a valueless receipt for a paid and partially used fare.

There is not the slightest excuse for any of these shortcomings. The street-car company "boils" money, and the crowd one finds upon almost every car, with nothing but standing room at certain hours of the day, so that many tired work and business men find it how it feels to sit in one of the seats, certainly points to the urgent need of a five minute service.

But the company has a monopoly and the directors may comfortably and unconcernedly sit back in their cosy chairs or whiz by in their luxurious motor cars, wholly uninfused and indifferent to the requirements and comfort of the less fortunate public. These conditions are not unknown to them, for they have repeatedly been called to their attention. How much longer, I pray, shall we be subjected to this abuse?

TWO HONOLULU Y. M. C. A. WORKERS TO WED IOWA GIRLS ON SAME DAY

Two weddings will take place in Iowa tomorrow, in which the bridegrooms are Honolulu men, J. A. Urice, head of the Y. M. C. A. educational department; and Glenn E. Jackson, physical director of the association. Here are the novel features concerning the ceremonies:

Cedar Rapids is the "home town" of both bridegrooms.

Each man set August 4 as the wedding date, without knowing the other had chosen that day.

Both are marrying Iowa girls. The weddings take place in cities.

within 15 miles of each other—Jackson's in Sumner, Iowa; and Urice's in Waterloo.

Both men are employed as officials of the Honolulu Y. M. C. A..

Each became acquainted with his future bride while attending college.

Mr. Urice's bride is the daughter of a prominent Waterloo physician, while Mrs. Jackson to-be is a member of a leading family in Sumner, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will return to Honolulu August 17 to make their home here. They will occupy one of the Higgins' cottages at Manoa. On Mr. and Mrs. Urice's return to this city August 31, they will share the same cottage with the Jacksons, while looking for a permanent location.

Both young men are popular here, and an appropriate reception is being planned by Y. M. C. A. officials and members to welcome the newlyweds on their arrival in this city.
